At Mennonite Mission Network, most people know us for our international ministries. But the Mission Network has a strong focus on U.S. ministries, where — working with area conferences and other agencies — we help congregations become missional across the street. We train leaders, provide mission-education resources, create ministry partnerships and help congregations discover their vision.

Welcome!

WE are Mennonite Church USA. Congregations, area conferences, churchwide ministries, schools, constituency groups, and related organizations. You'll find all of these connections in this book.

This printed directory is published as a companion resource to the online directory on the Mennonite Church USA web site at www.MennoniteUSA.org. You'll want to use the online directory, too, because congregational and ministerial information are updated on a regular basis.

You'll find additional connections here, as well—sister denominations, inter-Mennonite organizations, and more. I want to especially call your attention to section 5 about Mennonite World Conference. We are part of a global community, and this section emphasizes our connections in other parts of the world.

Within all parts of Mennonite Church USA, our desire is to become a missional church, joining in God's activity in the world and developing and nurturing missional congregations of many cultures.

All of us—together—can do so much more to extend God's healing and hope than we could ever do alone.

The Mennonite Church USA Directory 2007 is the result of a team effort, and you'll find many of these team members listed on the title page. In addition, area conference staffs have helped to provide updated information about area conferences, congregations, and ministers.

Together, we joyfully follow Jesus into the world,

Vision: Healing and Hope

God calls us to be followers of Jesus Christ and, by the power of the Holy Spirit, to grow as communities of grace, joy and peace, so that God's healing and hope flow through us to the world.

Mennonite Church USA is a dynamic group of people following Jesus into the world, and we're doing it in ways as diverse as we are. Together, we're focusing our ministry efforts in four areas:

In our holistic witness, we practice and proclaim the Gospel of Jesus Christ through a seamless web of evangelism, justice and peacebuilding.

We create a culture of call by calling, training and nurturing new leaders for Mennonite Church USA.

We honor the dignity and value of all people, regardless of their race or ethnicity and denounce racist behavior.

We build global connections by fostering and developing partnerships with the broader body of Christ around the world.

Pete Prunes, Nereida Babilonia and their children Bianca, Jacob, Sierra, and Isabel Prunes on a family outing at the Philadelphia Art Museum.

Building up the church — by tearing down walls

It starts with embracing diversity – not only within the congregation, but also in how that congregation defines community. Take Oxford Circle Mennonite Church in northeast Philadelphia, where Pete Prunes and his wife, Nereida Babilonia, have found their home. Neither comes from a traditional Mennonite background. And both are now actively involved in this diverse congregation.

Like many other Mennonite Church USA congregations, Oxford Circle is joyfully following Jesus into the world. They know it's "not just about Sunday." It is about love that comes from faithfully following Jesus. And about supporting each other every day, serving the community, opening doors to a new relationship with God. Today's Mennonite Church USA congregations are dynamic. And they are inviting new families – no matter where they come from or how they were raised – to see and serve the world from a uniquely Christian Anabaptist perspective.

Willie Mae Thomas, MMA advocate and deacon of Hopewell Mennonite Church in Reading, Pa

The real gift is in the giving.

Just ask Willie Mae Thomas, who says, "It's been a blessing to work with street ministries." The first female deacon of her congregation and an MMA advocate, Willie Mae is an excellent resource for people within her congregation and community.

Like other Mennonite Church USA congregations, Hopewell Mennonite Church offers countless ministry opportunities – from one-on-one ministries like hospital visitations and prisoner counseling to large-scale efforts like a community-wide youth ministry and food bank, a program partnered by Mennonite Mission Network.

Willie Mae knows involvement is the key to being part of God's plan. "Everyone has a gift," she says. "It's up to us to ask God, 'Where do you want me to be – and what do you want me to do?' " That faith is why Mennonite Church USA is joyfully following Jesus into the world – trusting that he will equip us to do his work in it.

Chairman of the board and chief executive officer for Jayco, Wilbur Bontrager stands near the end of the production line at the company's main plant in Middlebury, Ind.

This businessman sees 'small returns' as a major investment

Stewardship is about more than money. It's about a person's relationship with God. Just ask Wilbur Bontrager. He not only knows how to keep his company running, he knows how to keep it giving. His Mennonite values shape the way he does business, which means that both his company and his family make use of what he considers a useful tool – money – by giving back to his community and church.

For Wilbur, life is about more than money. It's about giving of your entire self to offer a 'small return' for what God has already given. And with a third generation of family and shareholders maturing, Wilbur hopes they – and the rest of Mennonite Church USA – will recognize that following Jesus into the world can be a part of your day job, too.

Sharon Kennel, Conference Minister
Central Plains Mennonite Conference with her husband, Cecil, on their Nebraska farm.

This Nebraska grower produces an exceptional crop (and her corn isn't too bad, either)

Sharon Kennel knows what it takes to grow a strong conference, and she's working to ensure the yields are good. By cultivating Central Plains Conference into a productive organization, people like Sharon are creating a structure that encourages, strengthens and affirms congregations. God meant for us to work together – not in isolation from one another.

The 21 area conferences of Mennonite Church USA gain strength and courage from each other. They network and share information, ideas, visions and goals. They learn from each other by setting standards, ensuring accountability and providing resources for congregations. Though community may take a different shape from one congregation – or conference – to another, it ultimately helps the whole denomination grow.

Committees/Councils

CONSTITUENCY LEADERS COUNCIL (CLC)

Leaders from each area conference and recognized group meet together at least twice each year to provide counsel and advice to the Mennonite Church USA Executive Board and to engage in conference-to-conference dialogue. Representatives are listed in sections 2 and 4 with each conference and recognized group.

The representational voice and counsel of conference and constituent group leaders is heard through the Constituency Leaders Council. CLC members worship and pray together, encourage faithfulness, share ideas and resources, process concerns, and discern direction on issues of faith and life in Mennonite Church USA. The CLC serves as a primary forum for conference-to-conference conversation and networking, as a place for conferences and constituency groups to talk together with churchwide agency representatives, and as a voice for agenda from the grassroots to surface with the Executive Board. Each conference is invited to send up to three representatives to the CLC, at least one of whom should be a conference minister. Recognized constituency groups may send two representatives to the CLC. The Mennonite Church USA moderator elect serves as the chair of the group, and a vice chair is chosen by CLC members each biennium. One role of the CLC is to nominate half of the eight-member Leadership Discernment Committee for election by the Delegate Assembly.

What the dove means to us:

Mennonite Church USA uses the dove as a symbol of our faith. Time after time, the Spirit in the form of a dove announces the coming of God to us. As Mennonites, we recognize the centrality of Christ as proclaimed in Scripture, revealed through the Holy Spirit and discerned in Christian community. This symbol, which has been designed for Mennonite Church USA and Mennonite Church Canada, reflects these basic beliefs.

The dove and Mennonite Church USA logo are an important part of our Visual Identity and are protected under copyright laws. For information on the preferred use and application of the dove symbol, contact Mennonite Church USA Communications at Communications@MennoniteUSA.org.

INFORMATION

Mennonite Mission Network, the mission agency of Mennonite Church USA, exists to lead, mobilize and equip the church to participate in holistic witness to Jesus Christ in a broken world. We envision every congregation and all parts of the church being fully engaged in God's mission—across the street, all through the marketplaces, and around the world.

Mennonite Mission Network's Board of Directors has established three outcomes, which shape its ministries: (1) engage people and cultures with the gospel of Jesus Christ, (2) start and cultivate missional congregations and (3) foster a missional identity in the church. Toward those ends, the Mission Network ministries take place in three areas of activity: Christian Service, International Ministries and Mission Resources. INFORMATION

MMA is the Mennonite Church USA stewardship agency. It helps people manage gifts in ways that honor God. MMA serves Anabaptist individuals and organizations with insurance, financial services, and educational resources.

MMA's Board of Directors is elected or appointed from Mennonite Church USA, the Missionary Church, Brethren in Christ Church, Conservative Mennonite Conference, and Mennonite Brethren Church.

Insurance plans include health, life, long-term care, and disability income coverage, with offerings for individuals and groups.

Financial services include mutual funds, annuities, trust services and estate consultation, retirement savings plans for church organizations and businesses, and investment management for individuals and institutions. MMA provides mortgages and other financing for institutions and congregations. All investments are guided by stewardship investing principles.

Mennonite Foundation provides planned charitable giving for individuals and planned giving services for institutions. Mennonite Foundation offers seminars and other educational events and serves members of Mennonite Church USA and other Anabaptist-related groups.

MMA's fraternal ministries include matching grants and educational resources and events. Fraternal ministries are made possible because a large part of MMA is organized as a tax-exempt fraternal benefit association, and money that would otherwise be paid in taxes is instead channeled to members and churches. Fraternal ministries do not increase members' premiums or fees.

Mennonite Faith and Practice

Stories: How Mennonites Came to Be
John D. Roth links the life of Dirk Willems with the present, exploring what relevance the radical teachings of his day might have for modern day Mennonites who claim his story as their own.

Beliefs: Mennonite Faith and Practice
In this short, engaging book, John D. Roth gives a brief account of what Mennonites believe from the beginnings of the Anabaptist (or Mennonite) movement in the 16th-century to today.

INFORMATION

CCW works to defend and extend the rights of conscientious objectors. CCW supports, for free, those who question participation in war: U.S. citizens, immigrants, or citizens in other countries. CCW participates in the GI Rights Hotline, a national referral and counseling service for military personnel. It lobbies to prevent the reinstatement of the draft. It administers a loan program for nonregistrants, called the Fund for Education and Training (FEAT).

CCW's advisory council includes Mennonite Central Committee, Church of the Brethren, and other Anabaptist traditions. CCW was formed in 1940 as the National Service Board for Religious Objectors (NSBRO) by an association of religious bodies including MCC and various Mennonite and other Anabaptist churches. From the Vietnam period until recently, CCW was known as the National Interreligious Board for Conscientious Objectors (NISBCO).

Mennofolk festivals are five regular gatherings of Mennonite folk (acoustic) musicians and those who love their music, serving as an outreach through music to the surrounding communities and an acknowledgment of the many fine professionals and amateurs of various genres among us.

We are supported by various Mennonite organizations and conferences with the goal of becoming an independent organization.

Our Web site maintains a database of Mennonite folk musicians across the country, as well as giving information about location and time of each Mennofolk festival.

ROCK OF AGES
Mennonite Home

Our Mission is to Serve All:
You may contribute to our building or endowment funds. Please call the number listed below.

Rock of Ages is conducting a campaign to raise $4 million to build a new residential care facility and leave an endowment to ensure care for the most frail among us regardless of their ability to pay.

Perhaps what makes us most different from other facilities is that we are faith-based and non-profit. At Rock of Ages ability to pay is never a criteria for care.

The existing facility is more than 50 years old and inadequate to meet the needs to today's residents. A comfortable, attractive, state-of-the-art care facility will provide compassionate care in a beautiful setting.

For more information, including ways you can give, contact Delvin Zook, Rock of Ages executive director, at 503-550-4750.

—THANK YOU—
MENNONITE CHURCH FAMILY

Mennonite and related households were the heart and core of the Mennonite Your Way programs in 1976. TOURS were begun in 1977, and while tour lodging is no longer in homes but rather in moderate hotel/motels along the way, the central focus of "community" continues. Today "Mennonite Your Way" has become a household word. Thank you for your hospitality. We invite you to join us in our tour program.

Mennonite World Conference

Mennonite World Conference (MWC) is a global community of Christian churches that trace their beginning to the 16th-century Radical Reformation in Europe, particularly to the Anabaptist movement. Today more than 1.4 million believers belong to this faith family. At least 60 percent of these believers are African, Asian, or Latin American. Mennonite Church USA is one of 96 Mennonite and Brethren in Christ (BIC) national churches from 53 countries on six continents that MWC represents.

Mennonite World Conference is called to be a communion (Koinonia) of Anabaptist-related churches linked to one another in a worldwide community of faith for fellowship, worship, service, and witness.

MWC exists to (1) be a global community of faith in the Anabaptist tradition, (2) facilitate community among Anabaptist-related churches worldwide, and (3) relate to other Christian world communions and organizations.

With MWC, Mennonite Church USA believes that the church is a worldwide body where people of different cultures and nations are "no longer strangers . . . but members of God's household" (Ephesians 2:19).

What the dove means to us:

Mennonite Church USA uses the dove as a symbol of our faith. Time after time, the Spirit in the form of a dove announces the coming of God to us. As Mennonites, we recognize the centrality of Christ as proclaimed in Scripture, revealed through the Holy Spirit and discerned in Christian community. This symbol, which has been designed for Mennonite Church USA and Mennonite Church Canada, reflects these basic beliefs.

The dove and Mennonite Church USA logo are an important part of our Visual Identity and are protected under copyright laws. For information on the preferred use and application of the dove symbol, contact Mennonite Church USA Communications at Communications@MennoniteUSA.org.

Cups Held Out
Judith L. Roth
Brooke Rothshank, illustrator
There are no pat solutions to the problem of poverty. But there is value in asking the question and searching for personal answers. Cups Held Out opens discussion for parents and children ages 6-to-10 on responsibility toward the poor of the world.

Simply in Season Children's Cookbook
Fun with food from garden to table
"Simply in Season Children's Cookbook is an imaginative, active way to invite kids of all ages to get in touch with real food to see where it comes from, to take responsibility for preparing it, and to have fun in the process. Promotes whole foods in a whole life experience—from growing foods to growing kids!"
—Mary Beth Lind,
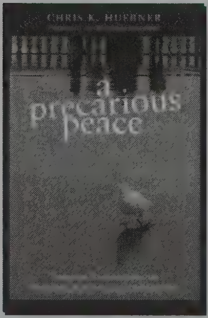
Co-author of Simply in Season

New from Herald Press



A Precarious Peace
Yoderian Explorations on Theology, Knowledge, and Identity
"Chris K. Huebner's challenging work brings Yoder's convictions into conversation with postmodern philosophy and theology, demonstrating the importance of keeping the church central for Christian ethics and reminding us that disruptive discipleship means vulnerability, not control."
—Gayle Gerber Koontz, Associated Mennonite Biblical Seminary

Consider Jesus
Donald R. Jacobs

Consider Jesus
Daily Reflections on the Book of Hebrews
Donald R. Jacobs holds up the book of Hebrews like a mirror, sharing daily reflections on how Jesus speaks in and through his life. Jacobs' daily meditation glimpses the way to the peace, power, hope and healing of Jesus as he is revealed in this challenging and enigmatic New Testament book.
